Sidecar's Knight in Black Satin. This young lad was having the time of his life his first time in the ring. Subtle curve of the head. Nice fill under the eyes. He has a nice level bite with the exception of one lower canine that sits slightly forward of the uppers. Shoulders were nicely laid back. Straight front. Short back with nice top line that I was unable to evaluate on the move as he was having too good of a time taking his handler on a ride. Tail set is good. This young boy is bully thru and thru and just needs to get some weight on, a little more ring time, and he'll be a contender.
